"...More impressive with each hearing. The outer movements of the sonata sparkled with melodic play, rhythmic bite and wit. The middle movement, titled Tenderly, overflowed with poignancy and poetic expression." -- John Paul Keeler, Register-Star, Hudson Valley Newspapers
"...The piece was performed well and reflected much of what this composer is known for: lyricism, melody, intricate harmonic writing and counterpoint...The overall sense was very Russian, very wintery, very beautiful indeed." -- J. Peter Bergman, The Independent

Pan Penseroso for 2 flutes and piano 27.99

Written for flautist Robert Dick, this includes a number of procedures explored in the pioneering book The Other Flute: A Performance Manual of Contemporary Techniques. Originally written for one flute, Bresnick created a two-flute version in order to make the piece accessible to a greater variety of players. This work is presented in three movements, each of which takes its title from John Milton's poem Il Penseroso (The Contemplative Man). The music aligns itself with this response to the poet's earlier L'Allegro (The Cheerful Man). Orchestral version available on hire. Dur.: 24'

The Norman dello Joio Vocal Collection for voice and piano 13.99
 A descendant of a long line of Italian church organists and the son of a Metropolitan Opera vocal coach, composer Norman Dello Joio wrote for all instruments, but most naturally, for voice. This collection of 12 of his vocal works is a tribute to his legacy. The collection opens with a heartfelt foreword from tenor Paul Sperry, well-known for championing the American art song and his work on the subject at Manhattan School of Music. The Norman Dello Joio Vocal Collection features works for mostly medium and high voices, such as "Lament" and "There is a Lady Sweet and Kind," but also includes "The Assassination" for low voice. For intermediate to advanced-level singers.
